

UNT

Dispoſe already of th' untaken ſpoil.
Otherwiſe the whole buſineſs had miſcarried, and Jeruſalem remain'd untaken.
A thouſand ſchemes the monarch's mind employ;
Elate in thought, he ſacks untaken Troy.
2. UNTAKEN up. Not filled.
The narrow limits of this diſcourſe, will leave no more room untaken up by heaven.
UNTAKEN up. adj. Not mentioned in the world.
Spread thy cloſe curtain, love-performing night,
That the runaway's eyes may wink, and Romeo leap to theſe arms, untaken of, and unſeen.
No happineſs can be, where is no reſt.
Th' unknown, untaken of, man is only bleſt.
3. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not to be tamed; not to be ſubdued.
Gold is ſo untakenable by the fire, that after many meltings and violent heats, it does ſcarce diminiſh.
He is ſwifter than any other bull, and untakenable.
4. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not ſubdued; not ſuppreſſed.
A people very ſtubborn and untaken; or, if ever tamed, yet lately have quite ſhocken off their yoke, and broken the bonds of their obedience.
What death has heav'n deſign'd,
For ſo untaken d, ſo turbulent a mind!
Man alone acts more contrary to nature, than the wild and moſt untaken part of the creation.
5. TO UNTAKEN up. v. a. To looſe from intricacy or convolution.
O time, thou muſt untaken this, not I;
It is too hard a knot for me t'untie.
This is that very Mabb.
That takes the ellocks, in ſoul, ſlutiſh hairs,
Which, once untaken d, much miſfortune bodes.
I'll give thee up my bow and dart;
Untaken let this cruel chain,
And freely let me fly again.
6. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not taſted; not tried by the palate.
The tall ſtag reſolves to try
The combat next; but if the cry
Invades again his trembling ear,
He ſtraight reſumes his wonted care;
Leaves the untaken ſpring behind,
And, wing'd with fear, outſtarts the wind.
A new repaſt, or an untaken ſpring,
Bleſſes his ſtars, and thinks it luxury.
7. UNTAKEN up. adj.
1. Not perceiving any taſte.
Cydonian oil,
Whole balmy juice glides o'er th' untaken tongue.
2. Not trying by the palate.
UNTAKEN up. adj.
1. Untaken d, uneducated; ignorant; unlettered.
A laught, or untaken d, the dunce is ſill the fame;
Yet ſtill the wretched maſter bears the blame.
On ev'ry thorn delightful wiſdom grows,
In ev'ry ſtream a ſweet inſtruction flows;
But ſome untaken d o'erhear the whiſp'ring rill,
In ſpite of ſacred lecture, blockheads ſtill.
2. Debar'd from inſtruction.
He, that from a child untaken d, or a wild inhabitant of the woods, will expect principles of ſciences, will find himſelf miſtaken.
3. Unſkilled; new; not having uſe or practice.
Suffolk's imperial tongue is ſtern and rough,
Uſ'd to command, untaken d to plead for favour.
4. TO UNTAKEN up. v. a. To make to quit, or forget what has been inculcated.
That elder berries are poiſon, as we are taught by tradition, experience will untaken us.
Their cuſtoms are by nature wrought;
But we, by art, untaken d what nature taught.
5. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not tempered.
One built up a wall, and others daubed it with untaken d mortar.
6. UNTAKEN up. adj.
1. Not embarras'd by temptation.
In temptation diſpute not, but rely upon God, and content not with him but in prayer, and with the help of a prudent untaken guide.
2. Not invited by any thing alluring.
Untempted, or by wager or by price,
He would attempt to climb the precipice.
7. UNTAKEN up. adj.
1. Not to be held in poſſeſſion.
He produced a warrant, that the town being untaken, he ſhould retire.
Caſaubon abandons a poſt that was untaken.

UNTAKEN up. adj. Having no tenant.
The country ſeems to be full ſtock'd with cattle, no ground being untaken.
2. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not having any attendance.
They fall, unbleſt, untaken, and unmourn'd.
3. UNTAKEN up. adj. Wanting ſoleneſs; wanting affection.
Goes thy heart with this?
—Aye, my lord.
—So young, and ſo untaken d?
—So young, my lord, and true.
4. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not offered.
Caſſibelan granted Rome a tribute;
Yearly three thouſand pounds; which by theſe lately
Is left untaken d.
5. TO UNTAKEN up. v. a. To bring out of a tent.
Will he not, upon our fair requeſt,
Untent his perſon, and ſhare the air with us?
6. UNTAKEN up. adj. [from tent.] Having no medicaments applied.
Blas'ts and fogs upon thee!
Th' untaken woundings of a father's curſe
Pierce every fence about thee!
7. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not affrighted; not ſtruck with fear.
Among innumerable falſe, unmov'd,
Unhaken, unſeduc'd, untaken d,
To ſuccour the diſtreſt; to give help
To an afflicted mother.
Unbri'd by love, untaken d by threats;
There are exploits worthy Achilles' ſon.
8. UNTAKEN up. adj.
1. Not repaid with acknowledgment of a kindneſs.
If all the world
Should in a pet of temperance feed on pulſe,
Drink the clear ſteam, and nothing wear but freeze,
Th' all-giver wou'd be untaken d, wou'd be unprais'd.
Their batter'd admiral too ſoon withdrew,
Unthank'd by ours for his unſin'd fight.
2. Not received with thankſfulneſs.
For'd from her preſence, and condemn'd to live:
Unwelcome freedom, and untaken d reprieve.
9. UNTAKEN up. adj. Ungrateful; returning no acknowledgment for good received.
The caſting away of things profitable for ſuſtenance, is an untaken abuſe of the fruits.
He is kind to the untaken d.
They which he created, were untaken d unto him which prepared life for them.
If you reckon that for evil, you are untaken d for the bleſſing.
The bare ſuppoſal of one petty loſs, makes us untaken d for all that's left.
10. UNTAKEN up. adj. Without thanks; without gratitude.
I judg'd it requiſite to ſay ſomething, to prevent my being thought to have untaken dly taken one of the chief paſſages of my diſcourſe from a book, to which I was utterly a ſtranger.
11. UNTAKEN up. adj. Neglect or omiſſion of acknowledgment for good received; want of ſenſe of benefits; ingratitude.
Thou diſt in thine untaken d; and thine ignorance makes thee away.
Immoderate favours breed ſiſt untaken d; and afterwards hate.
The untaken d ſtand reckon'd among the moſt enormous ſinners, which evinces the virtue oppoſite to untaken d; to bear the ſame place in the rank of duties.
12. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not diſſolved after froſt.
Your wine lock'd up,
Or fiſh deny'd, the river yet untaken d.
13. TO UNTAKEN up. v. a. To recal, or diſmiſs a thought.
Unthink your ſpeaking, and ſay ſo no more.
14. UNTAKEN up. adj. Thoughtleſs; not given to reflection.
Grey-headed infant! and in vain grown old;
Art thou to learn, that in another's gold
Lie charms reſtleſs! that all laugh to find
An effectual remedy for the wandering of thoughts who ever ſhall propoſe, would do great ſervice to the ſtudioſus, and perhaps help untaken d men to become thinking.
The untaken d part contract an unreaſonable averſion to that eccleſiaſtical conſtitution.
With earneſt eyes, and round untaken d face,
He fiſt the ſnuſt-box open'd, then the caſe.
15. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not obſtructed by prickles.
It were ſome extenuation of the curſe, if in untaken d ſtates were confinable unto corporal exertions, and there ſtill remained a paraſite, or untaken d place of knowledge.
16. UNTAKEN up. adj. Not regarded; not heeded.
That ſhall be the day, when'er it lights,
This gallant Hotſpur, this all-prais'd knight,
And your untaken d of Harry chance to meet.

UNT

TO UNTHRE'AD. v. a. To looſe.
He with his bare wand can unthre'ad thy joints,
And crumble all thy finews.
2. UNTHRE'AD. adj. Not menaced.
Sir John Hotham was unreproach'd, and unthre'ad, by any language of mine.
3. UNTHRE'AD. n. f. An extravagant; a prodigal.
My rights and royalties
Pluckt from my arms perforce, and giv'n away
To upſtart unthrifts.
The curious unthrift makes his cloaths too wide,
And ſpares himſelf, but would his taylor chide.
Yet nothing ſtill; then poor and naked come;
Thy father will receive his unthrift home,
And thy bleſt Saviour's blood diſcharge the mighty ſum.
4. UNTHRE'AD. adj. Profuſe; wateful; prodigal; extravagant.
In ſuch a night,
Did Jeſſica ſteal from the wealthy Jew,
And, with an unthrift love, did run from Venice.
5. UNTHRE'AD. adj.
1. Unthriftily. adv. Without frugality.
Our attainments cannot be overlarge, and yet we manage a narrow fortune very unthriftily.
2. Unthriftineſs. n. f. Waſte; prodigality; proſuſion.
The third ſort are the poor by idleneſs or unthriftineſs, as riotous ſpenders, vagabonds, loiterers.
The more they have hitherto embazell'd their parts, the more ſhould they endeavour to expiate that unthriftineſs, by a more careful managery for the future.
6. UNTHRE'AD. adj.
1. Unthrift. n. f. Profuſe; wateful.
The cattle I found of good ſtrength, having a great mote round about it; the work of a noble gentleman, of whole unthrift ſon he had bought it.
Can no man tell me of my unthrift ſon?
Our abſence makes us unthrift to our knowledge.
2. Unthrift. n. f. A low word.
Grains given to a hide-bound or unthrift horſe, recover him.
3. UNTHRE'AD. adj. Not thriving; not proſperous; not growing rich.
Let all who thus unhappily employ their inventive faculty, conſider, how unthrift a trade it is finally like to prove, that their falſe accuſations of others will rebound in true ones on themſelves.
7. TO UNTHRE'AD. v. a. To pull down from a throne.
Him to unthrene, we then
May hope, when overlaſting fate ſhall yield
To ſuckle chance, and chaos judge the triſte.
8. TO UNTHRE'AD. v. a.
1. To unthre'ad. v. a. To free from bonds.
Though you unthre'ad the winds, and let them fight
Against the churches; though the veſty waves
Confound and ſwallow navigation up.
2. To unthre'ad. v. a. To looſen from convolution or knot.
All that of myſelf is mine,
Lovely Amoret, is thine;
Sacharifa's captive ſain
Would unthre'ad his iron chain;
And thoſe ſcorching beams to ſhun,
To thy gentle ſhadow run.
The chain I'll in return unthre'ad,
And freely thou again ſhalt fly.
The fury heard; while on Cocytus' brink,
Her inakes unthre'ad, ſulphurous waters drink.
3. To unthre'ad. v. a. To ſet free from any obſtruction.
All the evils of an unthre'ad tongue, we put upon the accounts of drunkenneſs.
4. To unthre'ad. v. a. To reſolve; to clear.
They quicken doth, perplexities unthre'ad;
Make roughneſs ſmooth, and hardneſs mollifie.
A little more ſtudy will ſolve thoſe difficulties, unthre'ad the knot, and make your doubts vaniſh.
5. UNTHRE'AD. adj.
1. Unthre'ad. adj. Not bound; not gathered in a knot.
Her hair
Unty'd, and ignorant of artful diſplay'd.
2. Unthre'ad. adj. Not falſened by any binding, or knot.
Your hoſe ſhould be unthre'ad; your ſhoe unthre'ad, and every thing about you demonſtrating a careleſs deſolation.
6. UNTHRE'AD. adv.
1. To the time that.
Treaſons are acted,
As ſoon as thought; though they are never believ'd
Until they come to act.
2. To the place that.
In open proſpect nothing bounds our eye,
Until the earth ſeems join'd unto the ſky.
7. UNTHRE'AD. prep. To. Uſed of time. The other uſe is obſolete.

UNT

So ſoon as he from far deſcry'd
Thoſe glitt'ring arms, that heaven with light did fill,
Herous'd himſelf full blithe, and haſten'd them untill.
2. UNTILL. adj. Not cultivated.
The glebe untill'd, might plenteous crops have born;
Rich fruits and flow'rs, without the gard'ner's pains,
Might ev'ry hill have crown'd, have honour'd all the plains.
3. UNTILL. adv. Blackmore on the Creation.
Lands lain long untill'd, contract a ſour juice, which cauſes the land to run to unprofitable trumpery.
The ſoil untill'd, a ready harveſt yields;
With wheat and barley wave the golden fields.
4. UNTILL. adj. Not furniſhed with timber; weak.
Where's then the ſaucy boat,
Whoſe weak untimber'd ſides but even now
Co-rival'd greatness? or to harbour fled,
Or made a toaſt for Neptune?
5. UNTILL. adv. Happening before the natural time.
Boundleſs intemp'rance hath been
Th' untimely emptying of the happy throne.
Matrons and maids
With tears lament the knight's untimely fate.
Such were the notes thy once-lov'd poeſt ſung,
Till death untimely ſtopp'd his tuneful tongue.
Oh juſt beheld and loſt!
6. UNTILL. adv. Before the natural time.
He only fair, and what he fair hath made;
All other fair, like flowers untimely fade.
If ever he have child, abortive be it;
Prodigious and untimely brought to light.
Butchers, and villains!
How ſweet a plant have you untimely cropt?
Call up our friends,
And let them know what we mean to do,
And what's untimely done.
Why came I ſo untimely forth
Into a world, which, wanting thee,
Cou'd entertain us with no worth?
7. UNTILL. adv.
1. Untimely. adj. Not ſtained; not diſcoloured.
It appears what beams are untimely, and which paint the primary, or ſecondary iris.
2. Untimely. adj. Not infected.
Your inattention I cannot pardon; Pope has the ſame defect, neither is Bolingbroke untimely with it.
8. UNTILL. adj. Indefatigable; unwearied.
A moſt incomparable man, breath'd as it were
To an untimely and continue goodneſs.
9. UNTILL. adj. Not made weary.
Hath he ſo long held out with me untill'd,
And ſtops he now for breath?
See great Marcellus! how untill'd in toils,
He moves with manly grace, how rich with regal ſpoils!
10. UNTILL. adj. [un and till.] Having no title.
O nation miſerable!
With an untitled tyrant, bloody ſcepter'd;
When ſhalt thou ſee thy wholeſome days again?
11. UNTILL. prep. [It was the old word for to; now obſolete.] To.
O continue thy loving kindneſs untill them.
It was their hurt untruly to attribute ſuch great power unto falſe gods.
She, by her wicked arts, and wily ſkill,
Unawares me wrought untill her wicked will.
The uſe of the navel is to continue the infant untill the mother, and by the veſſels thereof convey its ſuſtention.
Children permitted the freedom of both hands, often confine untill the left.
Me, when the cold Digentian ſtream revives,
What does my friend believe I think or aſk?
Let me yet leſs poſſeſs, ſo I may live,
Whate'er of life remains untill myſelf.
12. UNTILL. adj.
1. Untill. adj. Not related.
Better a thouſand ſuch as I,
Their grief untill'd, ſhould pine and die;
Than her bright morning, overcaſt
With ſullen clouds, ſhould be deſac'd.
2. Untill. adj. Not revealed.
Characters where obſcene words are very indecent to be heard; for that reaſon, ſuch a tale ſhall be left untill'd by me.
13. UNTILL. adj.
1. Untill. adj. Not touched; not reached.
Achilles, though dipt in Styx, yet having his heel untouch'd by that water, was ſlain in that part.
Three men paſſed through a fiery furnace untouch'd, unſing'd.
2. Untill. adj. Not moved; not affected.
They, like perſons wholly untouch'd with his agonies, and unmoved with his paſſionate intreaties, ſleep away all concern for him or themſelves.